A Message From Our Chief Executive Officer & Board President

This year has been nothing short of transformative for Autism Ontario, marked by dramatic change and remarkable growth. In 2022-2023, we collaborated with researchers to gain insights into the experiences of Ontario families and their children. The survey results were pivotal in our decision to partner with AccessOAP, enabling us to continue providing independent Service Navigation for the Ontario Autism Program — much like we have done in previous years for ministry-led programs. This collaboration has enabled us to reach more families than ever, marking a significant milestone in our 50-year history. This achievement is particularly noteworthy as we acknowledge the tireless efforts of those who, years ago, volunteered countless hours to establish what was then the Ontario Society for Autistic Children, now recognized as Autism Ontario.

In our ongoing commitment to directly support families of autistic individuals, we took substantial steps forward. We quadrupled our staff, carefully selecting individuals who mirror the cultural demographics across Ontario. Notably, our partnership with Indigenous Friendship Centres marked a high point in our deliberate expansion of connections to those with diverse lived experiences that hold significant importance for families.

Additionally, our advocacy for enhanced mental health support yielded fruitful results. We secured a partnership grant with Children's Mental Health Ontario and Dr. Jonathan Weiss, leading to the training of over 5,000 individuals across the province. This initiative underscores our dedication to improving mental health resources and services for the benefit of the broader community.

A few years ago, Autism Ontario's Board of Directors collaborated with province-wide volunteer leadership and staff to craft its "ends" statements. They aimed to address a crucial question: "What will distinguish the experience for individuals and families due to the existence of Autism Ontario?"

The answer remains this statement:

Individuals and families in their communities are equitably and seamlessly supported across their lifecourse.

Furthermore,

Individuals, families, and communities have meaningful:

- Supports
- Information
- Connections

Information/knowledge is created, curated, and mobilized that is:

- Trustworthy
- Timely
- Relevant

Autism Ontario is achieving these ambitious objectives through a diverse array of approaches, as elaborated in the following pages. We are deeply moved by the generosity and resolute efforts of numerous partners, staff, volunteers, and donors. They have played a pivotal role in establishing the resources that have collectively enabled us to make a meaningful impact on the lives of autistic individuals and their families across the varied communities of Ontario they proudly call home.

Land Acknowledgment

The Autism Ontario provincial office is located in Toronto, which is on the traditional territory of many nations, including the Mississaugas of the Credit, the Anishnabeg, the Chippewa, the Haudenosaunee, and the Wendat peoples, and is now home to many diverse First Nations, Inuit, and Métis peoples. Toronto is covered by Treaty 13 signed with the Mississaugas of the Credit and the Williams Treaties, signed with multiple Mississaugas and Chippewa bands.

We recognize, however, that our staff, volunteers, members, and the wider community are located all over the province on different Treaty lands. It is important to recognize that wherever we are in Ontario, we are located on the traditional territory of Indigenous peoples dating back to time immemorial.

Today, this meeting place is still the home to many Indigenous people from across Turtle Island, and we are grateful to have the opportunity to work on this land.

Language Statement

At Autism Ontario, we recognize that language is powerful. We understand that the language we use can educate, frame ideas and perspectives, and empower, but it can also harm and stigmatize [1].

The use of referential language, as it relates to autism, is a sensitive, important, and ongoing conversation.

Identity-first language reflects the belief that being autistic is important to a person's identity. Person-first language, including phrases such as "living with autism," reflects the idea that autism can be separated from a person. Results from a recent survey of over 7,000 autistic people suggest that approximately 90% of autistic people prefer identity-first language, with a smaller proportion preferring person-first language [5].

According to the Canadian Autism Spectrum Disorder Alliance (CASDA), there is a growing body of scientific and community literature documenting the dislike — among autistic individuals — of person-first language and its potential for increasing stigma [6]. Disability scholars have also objected to the use of person-first language [7].

Although we acknowledge that there are varying beliefs within the autistic community about which language standards are 'correct,' based on the existing literature on language preferences in the autistic community, Autism Ontario recommends using identity-first language (i.e., autistic person).

The clinical model defines autism or Autism Spectrum Disorder as a lifelong neurodevelopmental disorder that affects the way a person communicates and relates to people and the world around them.

The Public Health Agency of Canada references the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (DSM-5) in classifying autism as a disorder [2]. However, many autistic people prefer the terms neurological "difference" or "condition," which remove the negative associations with the word "disorder" [3].

At Autism Ontario, our goal is to support and advocate alongside all autistic individuals across the province, regardless of race, ethnicity, income, religion, or gender identity. We aim to actively and deliberately listen to and include all autistic community members to guide our choices relating to language.

We understand that many individuals in the autistic community prefer certain types of referential language [4], such as identity-first language ("autistic person" or "autist") over person-first language (the terms "person with autism" or "person on the autism spectrum" are often used interchangeably).

It is important to understand that each person may have a different preference for how they would like to be identified [8]. Autonomy and self-determination are the most important aspects to consider when talking about autism [9]. It is often best to ask an individual directly if they are comfortable telling you how they would prefer to be identified.

To be inclusive, respectful, and representative of the many people within our diverse community [10], we will use identity-first and person-first referential language. We acknowledge that the use of language evolves rapidly and will continue to be an ongoing discussion within the autism community.

Family Supports

Supporting Children, Families and Caregivers

This year, Autism Ontario continued to expand on its success with various supports, services, online events, and program offerings at both the regional and provincial levels. Our staff and volunteers partnered with local businesses to provide families with innovative online supports and services, as well as unique Social Learning Opportunities (SLOs), for parents and caregivers of autistic children to focus on their learning needs, make connections, and support caregiver education and empowerment.

OAP Provider List

This year, Autism Ontario approved hundreds of Clinical Supervisors of behavioural services, Speech-Language Pathologists, and Occupational Therapists as verified providers on the OAP Provider List. The OAP Provider List continues to act as a vital resource for families to search for, select, and confirm the qualifications of those providing services funded by the Ontario Autism Program. Our team has prioritized outreach and relationship building in the professional communities to engage providers of OAP services and contribute to the growth of the listing. We have developed a professional information session, offered twice a month, for providers interested in learning more about the qualification requirements and steps for joining the list. Autism Ontario hosted an information booth at the 2022 ONTABA Conference, where we shared resources and information on the OAP Provider List with hundreds of professionals from across Ontario.

In the fall of 2022, we implemented a new annual renewal policy that requires providers to complete a declaration of compliance each year and a full renewal every three years. Implementing the renewal policy will help us ensure that the OAP Provider List continues to be an accurate and effective tool for families accessing funds through the Ontario Autism Program. At the end of the year, the OAP Provider List included over 570 verified providers.

570 verified providers

CommunityConnect also contains a listing of over 300 individuals and organizations who have expressed a willingness to work with the autism community. This resource provides a one-stop experience where one can find camp listings, regulated health professionals, and other service providers offering various autism services — and we have new services joining every day.

Regional Programs and Events

We are excited to report that we now have staff support in each region and continue increasing our volunteer base and community presence.

Our regions are actively running programming for autistic adults as well as parent and caregiver support groups. This year, the team focused on providing equitable events and programming across the province. We have been encouraged by the growth we have seen.

In addition to autistic adult and caregiver support, our Regional Program and Volunteer Coordinators and Regional Fund and Volunteer Coordinators have been working closely with our Service Navigation – Events and Outreach team to provide events and workshops for the whole family.

Feedback: Regional Programs and Events

CARES: “The CARES program provided a safe space to be ourselves and express our own thoughts and feelings without judgement. The coordinators went through the CARES book, going through different scenarios and tips/tricks for us to use if need be. These groups are essential, as some of us, especially the ones in remote locations, only have these support groups to work with. Plus the fact that it's virtual helps a lot.”

South Region Adult Social Club Escape Room: “Really enjoyed the escape room! [It] was really enjoyable coming together and solving puzzles together!”

Fluid Art In-Person Program: “My daughter has a passion for art and this workshop was a perfect fit for her. Everyone was super friendly and helpful in such a bright and cheery atmosphere.”

New Diagnosis Adult Group: “I think this was an amazing experience. I learned a lot and feel more prepared for life now that I understand better what I'm living with. This was an important step for me in acknowledging my disability and accepting my diagnosis.”

Central West & South – Virtual Youth Cooking Program (ages 8-17): “The cooking class was amazing. My son and I had so much fun making so many different foods. We enjoyed [the class] and learned so much. The chef was very nice.”

Hamilton Adapted Gym Program: “It was wonderful to see my 4-year-old granddaughter's face light up as she ran around the gym checking everything out. She non-stop smiled from ear to ear. It was an hour of non-stop giggles and laughter.”

Ausome Moms (Parent Support Group): “It was great hearing from other moms about their experiences. The coordinator did a great job [with the] icebreaker topics and topics [of discussion]. It is my third session, and I am hoping to be able to open up more as I get more comfortable. I am really grateful for this.”

Celebrate the Spectrum 2022

On Saturday, April 2, 2022, Autism Ontario initiated Celebrate the Spectrum in honour of World Autism Day. Celebrate the Spectrum is an opportunity to foster positive efforts in creating supportive and advocacy spaces for our diverse communities. It encourages learning about autism and underscores the collective responsibility to enhance the inclusivity of our communities for autistic individuals.

Celebrate the Spectrum was successful, with people on the spectrum, their families, and friends across the province enthusiastically celebrating the spectrum in backyards, classrooms, and offices. It was an opportunity to come together while learning about autism.

People taking part were encouraged to share photos of their unique spectrum celebrations. This involved activities such as crafting and donning vibrant tie-dye shirts, as well as designing personalized flags, which were then shared with family and friends.

Service Navigation - Care Coordinators

AccessOAP: The Future of Service Navigation

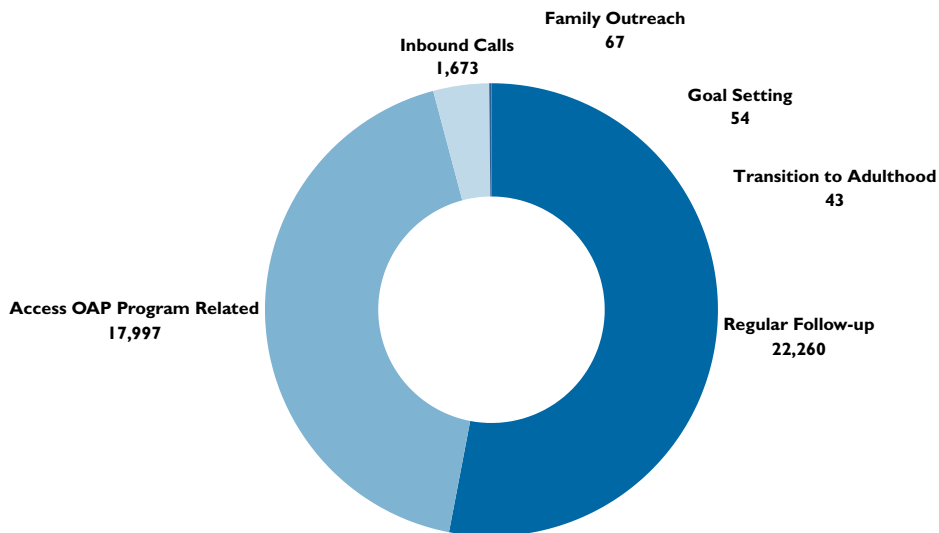

This year marked the first full year of our partnership with Accerta Services Inc., McMaster University (Centre for Health Economics and Policy Analysis ((CHEPA)) and the Offord Centre for Child Studies), and Serefin to deliver Care Coordination services to families through AccessOAP.

This collaboration, funded by the Government of Ontario, will support children, youth, and their families across the province to navigate the needs-based Ontario Autism Program (OAP) from intake to funding and access programs and services that meet their specific needs.

The team of 120 Care Coordinators has supported over 42,000 conversations with families through video calls, phone discussions, and messages in the AccessOAP family portal. Many families are reporting how supportive their Care Coordinators have been, and it is wonderful to know someone is available to discuss programs and services.

The expansion of our Care Coordination team has included French staff to support our Francophone families, in addition to Care Coordinators who speak a variety of other languages, including Mandarin, Arabic, Urdu, Cantonese, Hindi, Vietnamese, Tagalog, Malay, American Sign Language, and Punjabi. These Care Coordinators can offer support to families in their preferred languages, adding an additional layer of accessibility for these families.

Adult Services

Strong Minds through Active Bodies: Promoting Autistic Mental Health through Physical Activity and Planning

Autism Ontario was a recipient of the Autism Speaks Canada 2021 Community Grant, alongside its partners Variety Village / Variety – the Children’s Charity (Ontario), Apex Academy Online, and Partners for Planning

Strong Minds Through Active Bodies is a free online course designed for physical activity students, professionals, and supporters of autistic individuals. The course covers topics such as autism, neurodiversity, ableism, and autistic mental health. Participants gain access to crowd-sourced ideas to enhance accessibility to community programs and physical activities for autistic youth and adults.

This project involved direct consultation with 11 autistic adults, 6 caregivers of autistic adults, and 10 professional subject matter experts to shape critical components of our training resource for students and professionals.

During both focus groups and filmed interviews, the people we consulted with shared openly their lived experiences and ideas to create safer physical and psychological environments for people to thrive in the programs fitness and recreation professionals deliver.

Scholarships and Awards

Each year, Autism Ontario awards scholarships to outstanding students entering their first year of a post-secondary program across Ontario.

- In 2022, we awarded 15 Eleanor Ritchie Scholarships. The Eleanor Ritchie Scholarship is awarded to students on the autism spectrum. It is named after Eleanor Ritchie, a long-standing member of Autism Ontario, in recognition of her dedication and support for autistic individuals.
- We awarded 5 Jeanette Holden Scholarships to siblings of a person on the autism spectrum. The Jeanette Holden Scholarship was named after Dr. Jeanette Holden, a sibling of a person on the spectrum, in recognition of her dedication and contributions to autism research.
- We awarded 1 MacDonald Family Scholarship for a student with an autistic parent. Autism Ontario’s newest scholarship is named after Carole Ann MacDonald and her family. Ms. MacDonald was the first member of the Board of Directors of Autism Ontario who has an autism diagnosis.
- Autism Ontario's Building Brighter Futures Fund (BBFF) provides financial assistance directly to autistic adults in Ontario through a reimbursement of funds spent to access greater participation in their local communities. Autism Ontario was able to award 25 autistic adults this reimbursement, while 86 worthy applications were received.

Journey to Adulthood

Autism Ontario launched the Journey to Adulthood virtual workshop series for caregivers of autistic youth navigating the journey from youth to adult.

These virtual, six-week workshops are offered by Autism Ontario Transition Resource Specialists and discuss topics including funding, consent capacity and legal issues, post-secondary options, building community connections, employment, and advocacy. This year, Autism Ontario offered 36 weeks of Journey to Adulthood programs and 2 Journey to Adulthood overview sessions for 42 families.

Consulting with and creating our Journey to Adulthood vignettes with caregivers and autistic adults with lived experience of this age transition is an important component of the workshops, and these individuals were part of the virtual workshops with new families.

Program Feedback

"This is a wonderful workshop series, filled with loads of information. I highly recommend this class to families that are making that journey to adulthood with a young person with autism." (March 2023 workshop, 16-20y/o)

"The workshop surely opened up a world to think and plan for the future of our child." (November 2022 workshop, 12-15y/o)

Online Courses and Workshops for Autistic Youth and Adults

Autism Ontario continued to reach new online participants in 2022/2023 with Autism Career Connection courses. Over 600 students enjoyed free access to these online courses designed for autistic youth and adults looking to learn fundamental employment, job searching, and interviewing skills. Professionals, hiring managers, and human resources professionals also enjoyed one of the Autism Career Connections courses designed to support the growth of psychologically healthy and accessible work environments for their staff, including autistic staff members.

As part of a partnership, two autistic adults accessed a paid internship at Odgers Berndtson.

10 autistic women and non-binary adults attend Living Life to the Full

Autism Ontario and Canadian Mental Health Association (CMHA) Ontario Division continue our work together to provide opportunities for autistic adults in Ontario to gain knowledge, skills, and resources in mental health by offering Living Life to the Full for Autistic Adults 18+. Living Life To The Full is an online, 12-hour, eight-week mental health promotion program offering free opportunities for Ontario adults on the spectrum to learn wellness and coping skills using the tenets of cognitive behavioural therapy. In February 2023, 10 autistic women and non-binary individuals attended this program from all over Ontario, expressing that self-care themes and mutual supports offered in the program were beneficial.

The RDSP Action Coalition is a group comprised of Autism Ontario, Community Living Ontario, Partners for Planning, PooranLaw, and Family Alliance Ontario.

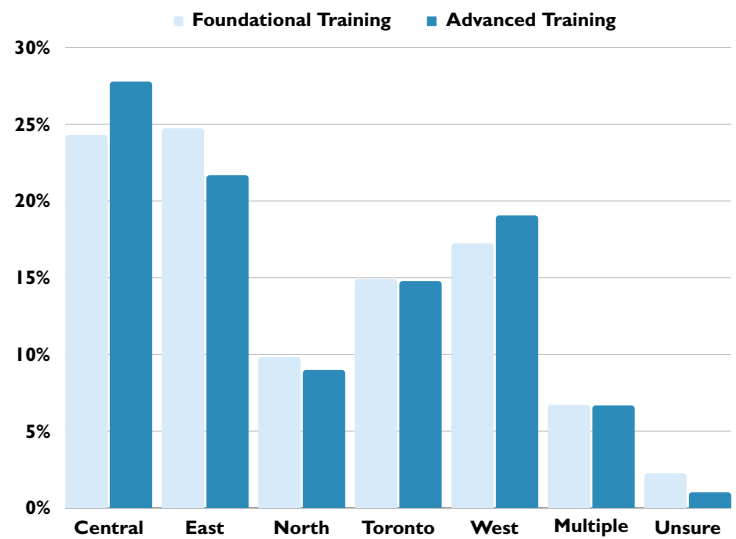

The mandate of our collective advocacy is to increase the uptake of the Registered Disability Savings Plan in Ontario and address barriers to opening and utilizing a Registered Disability Savings Plan. Due to our advocacy efforts, the provincial government announced their intention to extend the Qualifying Family Member provision until December 31, 2026, and to expand the provision to include adult siblings of a RDSP beneficiary. There is more work to do to address systemic barriers individuals and families experience in accessing this benefit, and so our group work continues.

Ongoing Partnerships

Families in Flux (Published April 2022)

The 2021 Ontario Caregiver Survey, conducted through a collaboration between the Laurier Autism Research Consortium (LARC) and Autism Ontario, sought to collect insights from primary caregivers of autistic children or youth (ages 17 or younger). This survey aimed to investigate their recent experiences during the COVID-19 pandemic in the areas of child education, autism services, supports, recreation, and caregiver well-being. The survey results underscore the persistent caregiver stressors that predated the COVID-19 pandemic, including lengthy waitlists, challenges in accessing and affording therapies, and time-related pressures in seeking care. These stressors were exacerbated by pandemic-related factors, such as isolation, service disruptions, and the ongoing uncertainty surrounding the Ontario Autism Program (OAP). Caregivers faced significant challenges in adapting to remote learning, resulting in disruptions for autistic students and compounded pressures on caregivers, impacting their mental health and well-being. While some families found unexpected advantages in remote learning, the availability of in-person education was a source of disappointment for others. Language Based Supports

Our language-based and culturally specific supports and opportunities continued to evolve as we offered access to information to many non-English speaking families.

From "What is Autism" sessions in Mandarin, Cantonese, and Arabic to mental health and "Facing the Stigma" workshops in Punjabi and Caregiver check-ins and chats with Mandarin and Cantonese-speaking communities, we are grateful to our partners at South Asian Autism Awareness Centre (SAAAC) who train our staff and support additional language translations so that we can continue to share these valuable supports and programs with more communities across the province.

This year, we also had the New Diagnosis series translated into Urdu, Farsi, and Cantonese, with more to come.

Advocacy

Autism Ontario continued its commitment to advocating for the rights on autistic Ontarians by engaging different stakeholders. Some highlights from the year include:

In February, Autism Ontario's Chief Executive Officer, Margaret Spoelstra, appeared in front of the Minister of Finance, The Honourable Peter Bethlenfalvy, where we outlined our concerns, including action on reducing wait times for those families waiting for core clinical services, support in transitions for autistic, children, and youth, and better housing solutions for autistic youth and adults.

We also intervened in an important human rights case on behalf of the autism community, when we successfully supported Niam Jain, a young autistic adult, and his family in their Ontario Human Rights Tribunal case against a Toronto sports club. Autism Ontario saw this as a clear case of discrimination not only against Niam and his family but the whole autism community. We also issued a media release in support of Niam and his family and interviewed him in the Autism Matters magazine.

During the 2022 Ontario provincial election, Autism Ontario also researched and published the main parties' platforms related to autism, providing useful information to voters. Autism Ontario's staff worked hard to keep the information updated in a constantly changing environment. During the campaign, Autism Ontario's Margaret Spoelstra was interviewed by the media about our findings.

On a national level, Autism Ontario partnered with the Autism Alliance of Canada, other allied provincial autism agencies, and the Public Health Agency of Canada (PHAC) to develop a coordinated pan-Canadian approach to autism that would result in a National Autism Strategy. The goal of such a strategy, along with a better understanding of autism and the needs of autistic people, would provide autistic Canadians and their families access to consistent supports no matter where they live.

Committee Membership

Autism Ontario Chief Executive Officer, Margaret Spoelstra, and Chief Education and Communications Officer, Jessica Bethel, are active members of the Seneca College Behavioural Sciences Program Advisory Committee (PAC), Mohawk College Autism and Behavioural Science Program Advisory Committee (PAC), and the Province of Ontario Neurodevelopmental Disorders Network Patient/Participant Advisory Committee (POND PAC). Autism Ontario places importance on these community connections as they impact research related to autism and neurodevelopmental disorders and the education of students in behaviour analysis programs in the province.

Media Coverage

Autism Ontario was involved in major media stories in 2022-23, including:

A Southwestern Ontario dog rescue, which made international news when they refused to give a dog to the Doan family. The dog rescue backed their refusal with vague, long-disproven claims about autism, then took it one step further by instituting a blanket ban on adoptions by autistic families. In a social media post, the rescue's owner quoted an unnamed teacher who claimed that 99% of her autistic students have outbursts and can be aggressive and violent. Autism Ontario used this opportunity to highlight the impact of these unfounded claims, educate the rescue about autism, and advocate on behalf of the Doan family.

The tasing of Abdullah Darwich, a young non-verbal autistic man who had wandered from his home by Peel Regional Police in Mississauga, in the fall of 2022. This event, which raised much concern in the autism community, also led directly to Autism Ontario's ongoing advocacy work with the Peel Autism Collaborative, an advisory group created by Peel Police to reduce the likelihood of autistics in the Peel Region experiencing future negative police interactions.

In the third story, Autism Ontario was also asked to comment on the death of Draven Graham, a young non-verbal autistic boy who had eloped from his home and was later found deceased. Autism Ontario created resources on eloping and supported the inception of a specialized alert system for these instances.

TEN FACTS ABOUT AUTISM

AUTISM IS NEURODEVELOPMENTAL Autism is a lifelong neurodevelopmental disorder affecting the way a person communicates and relates to people and the world around them. 	AUTISM HAS NO CULTURAL BOUNDARIES Autism exists in all cultures, ethnicities, races, and gender identities.
AUTISM IS A TYPE OF NEURODIVERSITY Being autistic means that a person's brain may process information differently than non-autistic, or neurotypical, people. 	AUTISM MEANS SOMETHING DIFFERENT FOR EVERYONE A person on the spectrum might talk about autism one way, while an autistic person's family or a medical professional may refer to it another way.
NEURODIVERSITY DOES NOT MEAN DISORDER Many autistic people prefer the terms neurological "difference" or "condition", which remove the negative associations with the word "disorder." 	NOT EVERY AUTISTIC PERSON IS THE SAME Autism exists on a spectrum, meaning each person on the autism spectrum experiences autism in a different way and the support they need varies.
AUTISM DIAGNOSES ARE PREVALENT IN CHILDHOOD 1 in 66 Canadian children and youth (ages 5-17) are diagnosed with autism. 	1-2% OF CANADIANS ARE AUTISTIC Approximately 1-2% of the Canadian population is on the autism spectrum, which means there are approximately 135,000 autistic people in Ontario.
USE PERSON-FIRST OR IDENTITY-FIRST LANGUAGE People talk about autism using person-first language (person with autism) or identity-first language (autistic person). When in doubt, just ask. The phrase, "on the autism spectrum" is usually a safe bet. 	EVERY AUTISTIC PERSON CAN THRIVE WITH THE RIGHT SUPPORT Many autistic people prefer the terms "high or low support needs" rather than "high or low functioning".

Fundraising

2022-2023 was another year of change for the fundraising team at Autism Ontario. We welcomed new Fund Coordinators across the Regions to help increase our fundraising efforts to ensure and support the longevity of the programs offered in Ontario. We also gave our donors more choice in how their donation is allocated. The 2022-2023 Fundraising Revenue chart below demonstrates the fundraising initiatives and allocations that donors chose to direct their support.

‘Amazing’ is the word that comes to mind when we think of the wonderful donors during our 2022/2023 year. A special thank you to our incredible foundation, corporate, and individual supporters for their ongoing support of Autism Ontario. Their overwhelming generosity directly helps support our mission and vision.

We continue to be amazed by local autism champions who organize their own events to raise awareness and funds in their local communities.

We are grateful for every dollar raised. On behalf of the Autism Ontario Board of Directors, staff, and most importantly, the program participants impacted by your generosity, we extend our most sincere thanks and appreciation.

Jane's Story

Our journey with Autism Ontario started when our family was facing challenges with my son Andrew's diagnosis in his late teens. There were no services for adults at that time in Niagara. Andrew and I went to a meeting with Autism Ontario Niagara Chapter, where plans were discussed regarding an adult social group. It was worth losing a day's pay to attend. Andrew had attended a group in Toronto, but Niagara is so much more convenient for us and less expensive. I started to donate to Autism Ontario as I realized the importance of the help we have received from Autism Ontario. The social group means a lot to Andrew and our family. I realize quality staff need to be paid to look after their own financial needs. Service groups and businesses give generously to Autism Ontario. I feel it is important for the families being served to donate to show they appreciate what they receive. I have read that the success of an organization is largely dependent on the commitment its members are willing to make. A group is taken more seriously if its members and clients are willing to donate to their cause and give of their time. There are times with my personal circumstances when I am not able to volunteer as much as I would like. Donating can help offset this to a certain extent. Our family has not been able to travel the last few years for a variety of reasons. Donating in lieu of travel provides the satisfaction of knowing the money is being used to better the lives of those on the spectrum.
